

Palm Beach Post

Palms West

Month

Brief

All eyes on the Stanley Cup

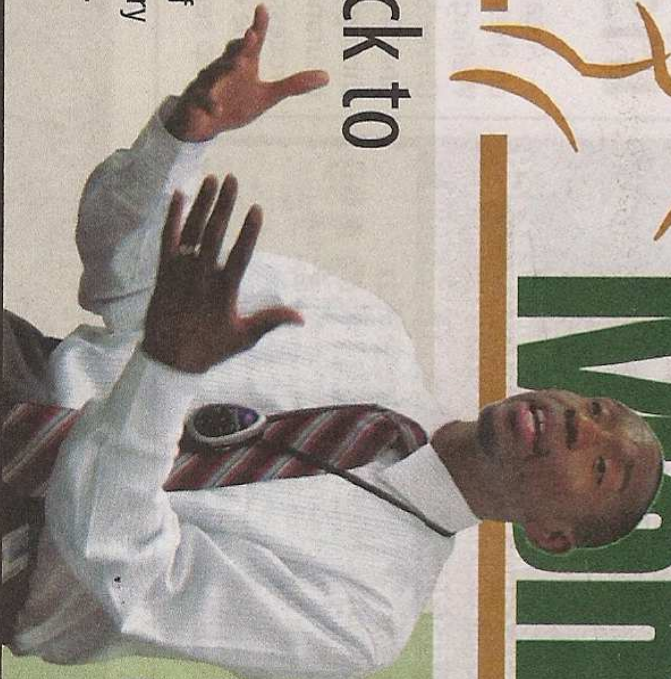

Highlight of the recent opening of the PBSO Wellington substation is getting up close to the trophy.

Getting back to one's roots

For this high school teacher of African-American History, every month is Black History month.

PAGE 17

Breakfast at the Z

The Palm Beach Zoo is set to host a Valentine's Day Breakfast Sunday, Feb. 13 among a bur

furry crit
PALM

Volume 2, Number 2

THE ACREAGE • LOXAHATCHEE GROVES • ROYAL PALM BEACH • WELLINGTON • WEST PALM BEACH

February

Experts teach equestrian students how to succeed

Young equestrians gathered around an Olympic medalist and a tenured professor as they shared experiences, answered questions and offered advice at a recent college prep workshop held at the Palm Beach International Equestrian Center.

Olympic silver medalist Peter Leone and Dr. Kimberly S. Jaussi shared their experiences with the youth, gave encouragement and answered questions about the topic, "Leadership, Vision and the Equestrian Athlete." Leone urged the group to lead by example and practice a strong work ethic.

"Make it a habit to do things correctly. Commit to doing your best and have confidence in your ability to win," said Leone, who, along with his three brothers are internationally known as Team Leone for their success in the show ring.

Jaussi pointed out that people, like corporate brands, create a brand around their behavior and that is what sets a person apart from others.

Jaussi is a professor at Binghamton University in the School of Management.

Leone and Jaussi co-authored the upcoming book, "Peter Leone's Show Jumping Clinic: Success Strategies for Equestrian Athletes."