

1 & Older division on Fashion, winning our classes over fifth in the during the other on Highland er saddle with om are owned the third time wn Declaration, ng, but the duo y, earning the ores of 85 and enk has owned out two years, Scott Stewart owing Declara- ear Green and tion divisions. ight to ride, De- gelded right af- d him, still has tendencies in es you he's very t like you, he's c acknowledged ough he is a big Declaration is a rse, who needs m and be very ampionship in r 18-35 hunters gan, riding her Koggan and st and second first day show- sixth and first xt. They were der saddle to onship title. d off of the the E.R. Mis-

Florida Atlantic University. Since she must juggle her time between school and riding, she is planning to show every other weekend, and plans to focus on the Bainbridge AHJF/WCHR Hunter Spectacular during week six of the FTI Winter Equestrian Festival.

In the Pine Hollow Adult Amateur Hunter 3'3" division the champion was Love Notes, with owner/rider Courtney Carey. Carey, originally from Cockeysville, Md., is currently a senior at the University of South Carolina and planned to commute back and forth from South Carolina almost every weekend to compete at the 2010 FTI Winter Equestrian Festival.

Carey bought Love Notes, or "Lovey," in the beginning of the year, and her trainer, Jen Bauersachs, showed him throughout 2009 in the Pre-Green Hunter and First Year Green Hunter divisions.

Carey could not compete the first day the division showed due to school obligations, but it did not stop her from bringing home the tri-color. "They rode really well," Carey said of today's courses in the Rost Arena. It was clear that the courses suited both Carey and Love Notes when she won all three classes when she returned to the show ring, earning her the championship, while both of the blues the previous day went to Georgia Dillon with her mount, Leonetti, which secured the reserve championship ribbon for them.

For full show results, see shownet.biz or equestriansport.com. Chester Riding Club tapped in Chester, N.J., were thrilled to win. Maillet said it takes a village to operate during a show and everyone pitched in to help decorate the barn area at WEF. "We have great grooms," Maillet said, adding that he has been bringing riders to WEF for 17 years.

Chester Riding Club's design, landscaping and a functional, yet appealing, living area, caught the attention of the Tack Room Award judges. The dark embroidered curtains, teak tables and easy accessibility of the tack trunks helped clinch the title.

Frank Madden's Hunter's Moon Farm won the Equilite 2010 Grooming & Conditioning Award for week one.

Hunter's Moon Farm was awarded a giant tote filled with Equilite products.

"We have a wonderful group of grooms so really the award is theirs," Madden said.

Frank Madden Show Stable, located at Hunter's Moon Farm in East Norwich, N.Y. opened about two years ago.

Gold Coast Opener

Wellington, Fla.

Todd Flettrich and his mount Otto, owned by Cherry Knoll Farm of West Grove, Pa., won the FEI Grand Prix de Dressage on Jan. 22.

Competing in the main arena at the Jim Brandon Equestrian Center, Flettrich and Otto completed their Grand Prix test with a score of 67.8% for the overall victory.

It was the first time Otto, a 13-year-old Danish Warmblood, has shown since Dressage at Devon in September. "My goal truly was not to make any mistakes and I was a bit nervous myself because I haven't shown since Devon and I didn't have any kind of practice run," Flettrich noted. "I felt a little bit ill prepared, but I really was very happy with him. Otto definitely has more in him than I did today, but he did everything that I asked and I achieved my goal."

AQHA World Championship

New Jerseyan Pierre Briere and Shes Hot Straw owned by Dawn Blake of Orange, Conn. won their first world championship in junior western riding at the 2009 AQHA World Championship Show in November.

Holiday & Horses

Wellington, Fla.

Hillary Dobbs, 21, piloted Quincy B took the top prize on Nov 28, in the Holiday & Horses $50,000 FEI World Cup Grand Prix.

Ken Berkley and Carlos Boy's were second in the jump-off by 3/4 of a second. Dobbs and Quincy B topped a 38-horse starting field under the lights and earned qualifying points for the 2010 World Cup Finals in Geneva.

nd Declaration earn the championship in the l Adult Amateur Hunter 51 & Older Section B l Winter Equestrian Festival. (Horse News: lustphoto, Inc.)

Field, earning s in the second well had not Washington In- Show in Octo- t not seem like t the show ring. all my expect- eekend," Kog- tile. ally from New tly attending into their inner equestrian interior decorator winning the Classic Equine Idlewild Tack Room Award for week one of the WEF.

The New Jersey based farm won a handcrafted antique tropical teak stool from Tack Room Award sponsors Classic Equine Equipment and their South Florida distributors Idlewild Furnishing.

The staff, grooms and riders at Chester Riding Club, owned by trainer Jamie Maillet and located